Bad Karma

Desi entrepreneur Kulin Shah's Bad Karma clothing company features tees and hoodies with cultural references like "iFob" and "Shakti." Their latest offering is their signature yoga bag, which is produced in partnership with a fair trade organization in India that empowers disabled and poor women artisans in Bombay by teaching them skills needed to become self-sufficient. "We refer to this as 'dignity, not charity,'" says Shah. With hand-stitched multicolor threading and Bad Karma's elephant logo, get the yoga bag and other accessories, too.
